IMPERIAL STEAM COOKED HORSE FEED is made of whole corn and oats steam cooked and kiln dried. Most horsemen are convinced of three things before they begin to use Imperial Steam Cooked Horse feed, its SAFETY, HIGH NUTRITIVE VALUE and its HIGH DIGESTIBILITY. It is very high in DIGESTI-BLE NUTRIENTS and is surely PRODUCTIVE OF ENERGY and MUSCLE. INDIGESTION and COLIC are unknown troubles when your horses are fed on this diet. Water less than eight per cent, fiber less than four per cent, carbohydrates seventy-two per cent. It takes about 2,300 pounds of raw grains to make a ton of Imperial Steam Cooked Feed which is put up in one hundred pound sacks, running about one hundred quarts to the bag. It takes three bags to a horse to give it a fair trial and watch results. For sale by

Among the Farmers

"SPEED THE PLOW." Wild Geese.

From sunset, slowly fading To misted beryl and blue Streaked with the melted topaz, The goose-wedge comes in view. The boughs of twisted cedars On ledges darkly sway, Making a futile gesture To rise and fly away.

Nothing will have beginning And nothing end in me, For watching the geese fly over, That any one may see. Only my heart makes gesture,
Or lifting wings to go,
Like boughs of the twisted cedars
Dark in a fading glow.

Got Mild Intoxicant From "Peyote" Plant

"Peyote" (pronounced "pay-yo-tay," with accent on second syllable) is the Mexican form of the Aztec "peyotl," meaning a caterpillar. The Aztecs applied "peyotl" to a species of composite plants in southern Mexico because of the downy growth on the roots. A mild intoxicant was made by the Indians from this plant. Later "peyote' came to be applied to a small spineless cactus which grows in northern Mexico and the southwestern part of the United States. This cactus is found in abundance along the Rio Grande. Standing in a romantic glen, its columns look as though they had been undisturbed for 2.000 years. The fact is that the temple has been in its present position about a century. Its original site was ancient Carthage. On several of the stones are inscriptions. One, in Greek, on an altar stone, tells how Publius Aurelius dedicated it to Jupiter and to the other gods worshiped in the temple. Others are written in Latin. One of these his most beloved wife Domitia Rogata, who lived twenty-three years."

At one time a fine group of ancien Greek statuary stood near these columns from Carthage. When William IV opened these lovely grounds to the public, however, these statues were so shamefully mutilated by visitors that they were completely ruined, and the public were again excluded until the reign of Queen Victoria.

If one believes the old saying, there is going to be another war. The reason for his superstition is that more male children were born last year than females. The exact number was 911,831 males and 863,080 females—that is here in the United States. The birth rate exceeded the death rate also, so there will be a surplus to kill off. The first was 22.5 to every 1000 of the population, and the second 11.9 of every 1000 of the population. This inevery 1000 of the population. This in-crease of births over deaths is general Wednesday afternoon, Nov. 26. Every except in eight states, and Maine is one pupil was present.

He might well have included window shades, for soiled, neglected shades are not consistent with ining windows! When putting the house in order the winter months, the condition of the window shades usually presents problems in cleaning, renovation or renewal, and in response to inquiries concerning these the Institute has been investigating and testing various methods of cleaning and care. Visits were made to manufacturers of shades and shade rollers and to shade cleaners, and the methods advised have been carefully tested as ods advised have been carefully tested as to effective results.

It is quite evident that frequent dusting of shades makes any special cleaning less necessary, but to do this the shade must be taken down from the window.

To avoid creasing the shade, roll it up as far as possible before taking it from win-dow, using a step ladder to reach the roller easily. Unroll carefully over a table and roll up slowly, dusting each side well as it is rolled. Replace on lindow and test to see if it rolls up and lown properly. The rollers advise against the use of a fork or any tool to tighten up the spring in the roller, when a shade rolls up too loosely. They consider it safer and just as effective simply to unroll the shade and roll if up again tightly and evenly.

Any method of special cleaning will largely depend upon the type of shade to be cleaned, that is, painted or unpainted. The unpainted or Holland shades are translucent and the colored Hollands, now nearly all made of a cotton cloth, are dyed before the fabric is woren. The attractive surface fluish of woven. The attractive surface finish of a good Holland shade, which is obtained by a process of pounding or "beetling" and calendering, does not respond kindly to washing. An expert cleaner, who has made a business of cleaning shades for over a quarter of a century, recommends dry cleaning for these. A general soil does not of course show an proceeding on does not, of course, show up readily on colored shades, but spots on these and on uncolored ones may often be removed with a grease solvent such as carbon tetrachloride. This expert uses art gum for cleaning all white and cream-colored

> In recent years the use of painted or tinted shades has greatly increased. These are made of cotton cloth of varying degrees of fineness and weight. Many of the thinner, coarser grades are filled to give body to the shade and the fabric is pointed on each side with fabric is painted on each side with a coat fabric is painted on each side with a coat of flat oil paint. These shades are opaque but as they wear the filling may drop out here and there, forming holes, especially where the shade has been wrinkled in any way. We flud that they do not wash successfully as water tends to dislodge the filling nia or a light soap-suds of neutral soap. Use little water and wipe the shade as dry as possible. A sponge is excellent for this. One shade manufacturer visited was considering the manufacture of a special cleaning powder the basis of which seemed to be a mild alkali. For the very soiled unfilled and uncolored the very soiled unfilled and uncolored shades cleaning with art gum proved effective and seemed to be preferable to washing. We would not advise any cleaning method for colored shades other than the use of a grease solvent.

At the shade cleaners' we saw many shades that had been ruined by the misdirected efforts of window cleaners, who in cleaning the window rolled up the shade and wiped it off with their wet cloth! No method of cleaning would remove the resulting stain.

When painted shades wear beyond the point where they will not respond to cleaning they may be repainted if one cares to take that trouble. The original color of paint, or any darker color which is suited to the decoration of the room, may be used. A flat oil paint thinned down sufficiently with spirits of turpentine to allow it to brush on smoothly gives the best finish. A good paint brush and some skill are needed to apply it evenly, however, and the shade should he detad well before being relied. it evenly, however, and the shade should be dried well before being rolled up.

The lower part of nearly all shades becomes worn in time. Lack of care hastens this. With windows lowered from the top a brisk breeze or a sudden great of wind often decrease. from the top a brisk breeze or a sudded gust of wind often draws out the shade to flap against the outside of the sash. A passing shower may bring water dripping down from the roof, staining the shade beyond any cleaning. It is easy to trim off this worn part after measuring the amount to be out in order to keep the whole shade even. This out edge may then be hemmed or the upper half of the shade removed from the roller.

Ice Cream Recipes. Home-made ice cream is always a treat. Besides, it's a way to use more milk and cream in the children's diet.

Here are some recipes suitable for one-quart freezers, suggested by Miss Bernice Dodge of the Home Economics Department of the University of Wisconsin:

Lemon Milk Sherbet—Two cups milk 34 cup sugar, jnice of 1 1-2 lemons. (1)
Mix lemon juice and sugar. (2) Add this slowly to milk, stirring constantly. (3) Freeze, packing with a mixture of three parts cracked ice to one part rock

Philadelphia Ice Cream—One-half cup

Every dollar that these companies pay in taxes is a dollar you do NOT have to pay.

Consider this point of LOWER TAXES for Maine when you invest your money.

Every dollar that you invest in Central Maine Power Company Preferred Stock helps to build a dam; or a power station; or the transmission lines to distribute this power to the cities and towns. A new industry is attracted there. Families move there to work; homes go up-more taxable property is created with more people to help pay your community's taxes.

Ultimately you get lower taxes; or more for your tax money.

Do you see where an investment in the 7 per cent. Preferred Stock is an investment in LOWER TAXES?

And judging from its past record of 19 years of continuous dividends-through war and peace, through inflation and deflation—it is an investment in SAFETY,
